

The problems start with the initial list of vendors - something that 98% of buyers make when buying software.

